

Steve Snodgrass is an American mental health practitioner, social worker, and independent writer known for his development of Integral UFOlogy, a method for evaluating the validity of UFO/ET contact claims. Snodgrass received a BA in psychology and philosophy from the University of Nebraska Lincoln and an MSW in social work from the University of Nebraska at Omaha. He is acting President of the Omaha UFO Study Group and lives in Papillion, Nebraska, USA.

Research interests include the establishment of a methodology for validating claims of UFO/ET experiencers, addressing the ridicule/stigma factor in UFOlogy, and examining claims of parapsychology in light of advances in cognitive neuroscience.

Personal interests include cosmology, the nature and perception of time, consciousness, mysticism, philosophy, psychology and psychoanalysis, paraconceptual phenomenon, and emergence in matter, life and consciousness. Snodgrass holds a professional interest in public education policy.
